

TWO NEW LEAGUES

Croatia, Serbia and Slovenia have founded their mutual SWOS Football Association (SHSSL). The League, which is managed by Lik, GFC and Lynx, has begun with 7 players on July. The other new National Association is LESS (Spanish Sensible Soccer League).

THE SHOW IS GOING ON!

Redhair has won the ISSF Champions League after a fine 4-3 win over Playa

After winning ISSF Cup last season, he celebrates his first ISSF Champions League title now. Redhair had been relegated from Super League after 21st season, he was not on the top of the world ranking anymore. His Champions League victory has signalled that the show is going on... "Congratulations, Reddi! Absolutly deserved win. The result is closer than the game actually" said Playaveli, the current number 1 of the ranking. Redhair finished the Super League as third on June and runner up in German League. Carminetcs has won the ISSF Cup after a 8-7 win over Coolio-Jack. He is the first Italian player, who won an European Cup.

OFFLINE MONSTER!

The interview of the month has been made by Playaveli. Our guest is a successfull offline player: Oli O.

P: Hello Oli O., please take us back in your early days when you started playing SWOS and why you still playing it!

O: It was in 1992 or 1993 when I met schoolmate "Obi-Wan" the first times and he showed me a new soccergame called "Sensible Soccer". I only knew a very simple soccergame from C64, so at first Sensi was too fast for me but I liked the little men on the pitch. Then we got the SWOS-versions for Amiga and we had problems to score goals ;), so Sierra Soccer was my favorite game in 1994-95 because of the crazy physics and shots. I moved back to SWOS when it was released on PC with the 95/96 edition, although it was fast but the later 96/97 version was and is perfect. After some years I started creating my own tactics and thats the reason why I stayed. No other game is so exciting, funny and "creative"(because of tactics) like SWOS.

P: Can you share some memories of the first offline tournaments (DST) with us?

O: Not knowing whether being hammered or anything else, I was little bit nervous when I went to Berlin to EIMichal's DST1, but in the end it was very interesting to see other styles of playing and other "freaks", of course! :D At the following DSTs we had much fun but these tournaments were very small with 4-10 participants. Sensidays had to be invented!...

P: What is your opinion on and what are your impression of the Sensi Days?
O: Sensidays are on of my highlights every year. It brings many Swos-fans from different countries together. You have to play against very different qualities and styles, newbie to pro, it is just like the real world cup. The location and organisation is great, so I think everyone has good memories on it and tries to come back the next year. and don't forget the Dutch-supporters creating real stadium-feeling! :)

P: For those who don't know it yet, please let them know where your nickname comes from!

O: In SWOS and real football I recognized spanish striker Olivero Oli. My firstname is Oliver, so I found it funny and used to play with him. In a manager-game called "Anstoss" first- and surnames are changed -> Oli, O... After many, many sessions with my friends I had my nick/they called me "Oli O."

P: Please let us know what you think about and expect of SensibleSoccer.de!
SensibleSoccer.de is important for all swos-fans with its f.a.q, forum, introductions, infos, infos and infos! You can discuss/share your problems, feelings, etc. about SWOS and make new friends. I love this site!

P: Where do you think SWOS has the highest playing-standard? As far as you have seen many players from all different countries...

O: Hm, I don't know many european players yet, but I think in Germany and Poland are some very good players. The danish ones from Sensidays 2004 were hard to play. I'm looking forward to see some players from Yugoslavia (WST) or Britain to finally know where the best SWOS is played! :D

P: Thank you very much Oli O., for this interview. See you in Pirmasens! I am looking forward!
